

For Immediate Release: March 2010
Media Contact: Tom Eisenhauer, tom @ lalcv.org

LA League of Conservation Voters endorses Pat Kearney for Lawndale City Council

L.A. COUNTY – The Los Angeles League of Conservation Voters (LALCV) – which has supported pro-environment candidates in Los Angeles County for more than three decades – today announced its endorsement of Pat Kearney for Lawndale City Council in the upcoming April 13th election.

“During his years of service to Lawndale, Pat Kearney has shown he understands that environmental issues are actually quality-of-life issues,” said LALCV President Anthony Rendon. “Pat Kearney has the experience, courage and compassion to fight for children’s health, better public transportation, and more effective stormwater and recycling policies. He will be a strong voice for Lawndale on the City Council.”

Kearney understands the connection between environmental policy, like the lack of parks and open space, and vital public health issues, like childhood obesity. He knows that the long-term health of his community - and of its neighbors - depends on Lawndale increasing its recycling and reducing its stormwater run off into the Santa Monica Bay. To provide residents with greater public transportation options, Kearney supports the Green Line in Lawndale - and hopes to make his city a model for smart growth.

For more information - including links to endorsed candidates’ websites - please visit www.LALCV.org.

About the Los Angeles League of Conservation Voters

Founded in 1976, the Los Angeles League of Conservation Voters (LALCV) is dedicated to electing municipal leadership in Los Angeles County to preserve, protect and enhance the environment. LALCV has helped elect more than 100 pro-environment officials throughout the county. LALCV endorsements are determined by its all-volunteer Board, which is composed of L.A. County residents committed to advancing environmental priorities. For more information on LALCV, its endorsements and its additional political activities, please visit www.LALCV.org.

###