LOS ANGELES LEAGUE OF CONSERVATION VOTERS

YOUR VOTE. YOUR ENVIRONMENT.

Dear

An election next Tuesday, May 17? For the Los Angeles Community College District (LACCD)? That's right - and it's an important one for pro-environment voters in Southern California.

Simply put, if you care about environmental priorities like clean air and climate change, then it's vital to vote for Scott Svonkin for Los Angeles Community College District on (or before) May 17.

LACCD runs one of America's most important green building efforts -- a multi-billion-dollar program that includes solar generation, carbon reduction and 85 new LEED™-certified buildings throughout the area. But that commitment has come under fire recently.

We at LALCV discussed the crucial issues with both candidates personally in this race. It is abundantly clear that Svonkin is the only candidate we can trust to ensure LACCD becomes the greenest district in the nation. Green building is vital to public health and job creation, and LACCD's sustainable building program needs Scott Svonkin's experienced, responsible oversight.

If you'd like more information on Svonkin's experience and this race, please check out the joint LALCV-Sierra Club Angeles Chapter statement urging voters to support him on May 17. Svonkin is also supported by environmental leaders like U.S. Rep. Henry Waxman and California Senator Fran Pavley.

Sincerely,
Jonathan Parfrey
